the ritual of the bath

New York's Soho House now boasts 14 additional rooms on the second floor that continue to feature the bathtub as a voyeuristic centerpiece. Bashful? Pull the drapes.

London designer Hubert Zandberg uses his high-contrast bath as a collector's gallery for some of his favorite black-and-white photography.

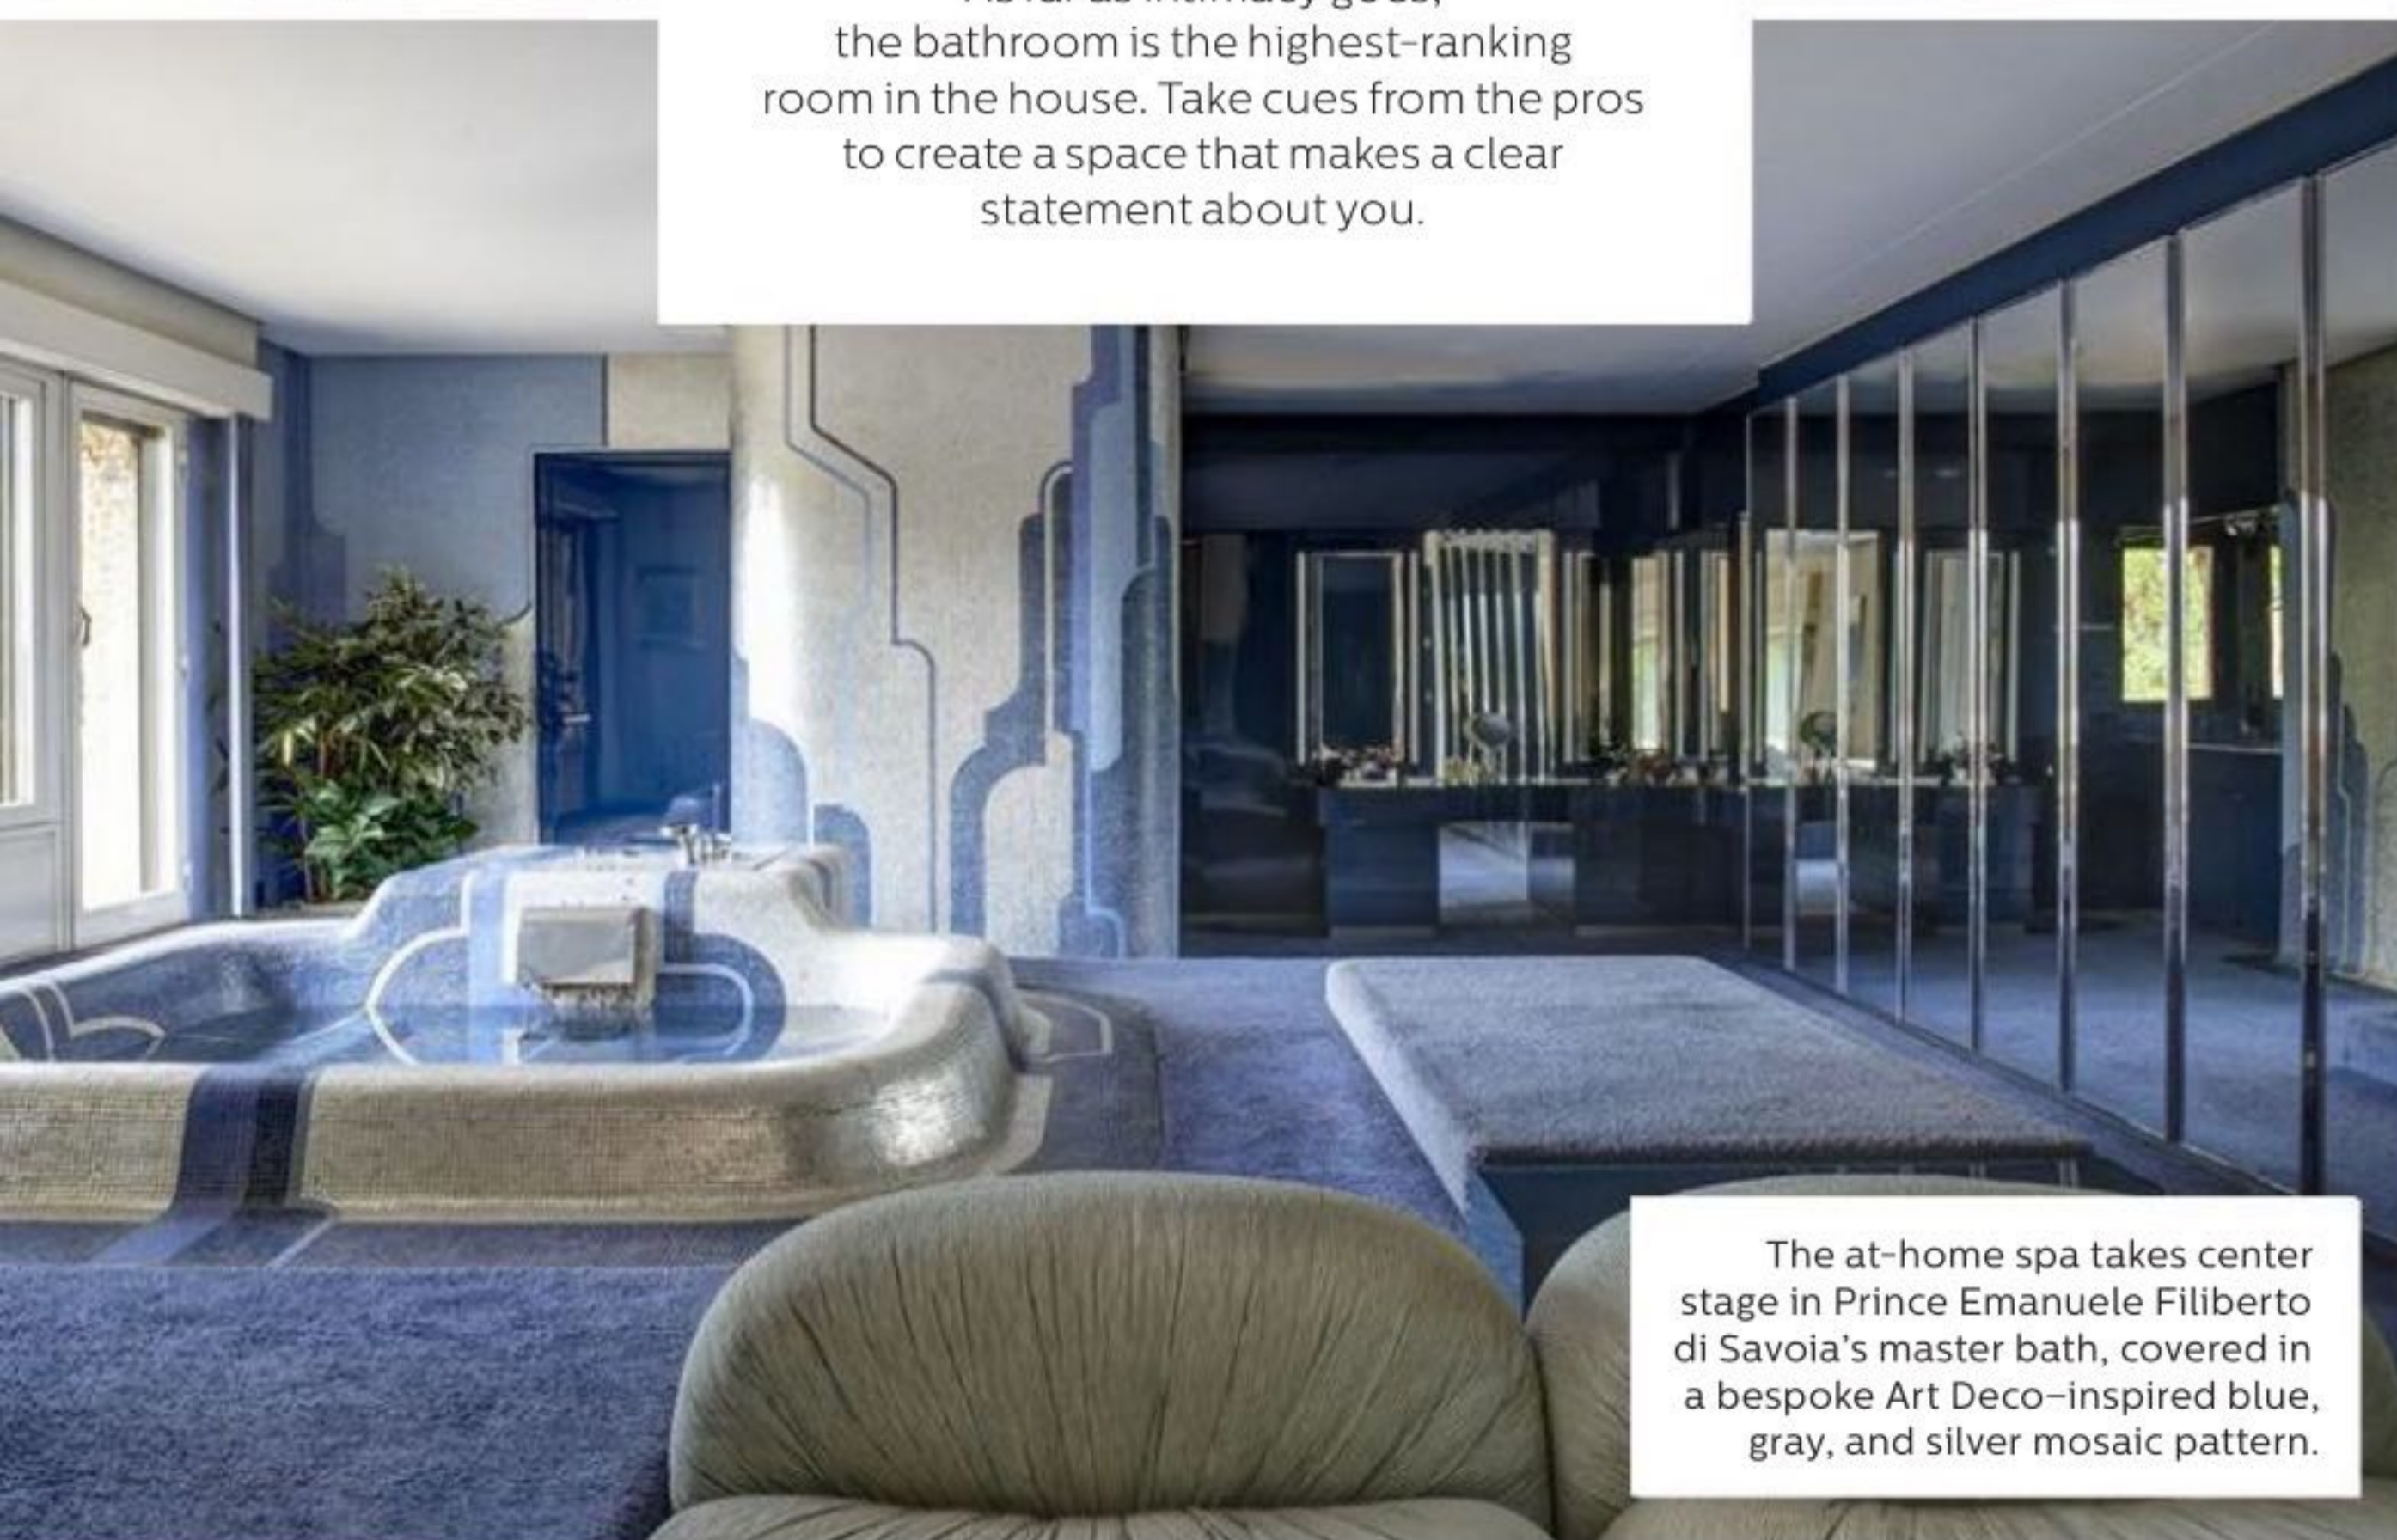

Overlooking Central Park in New York, Celerie Kemble's bathroom is a marble sanctuary fit for high society.

Designed more as a chic den, Peter Mikic's Notting Hill, London, bath is furnished with antiques and plush seating.

The Water Club

As far as intimacy goes, the bathroom is the highest-ranking room in the house. Take cues from the pros to create a space that makes a clear statement about you.

The at-home spa takes center stage in Prince Emanuele Filiberto di Savoia's master bath, covered in a bespoke Art Deco-inspired blue, gray, and silver mosaic pattern.

Hot Tubs

Indulging in a long soak is the new weekend retreat.
